Consider power wash.

Obviously, dirt, debris and mildew build up on the surface of your deck over time and if left untreated for long, you will have to face dangerous consequences. If you want to avoid potential damage, you should contact a handyman for inspection and power washing your deck at least once a year. Washing your patio properly is one of the most important ways to maintain your investment and improve your home's overall aesthetics.

Consider sanding and staining.

After that, you should focus on deck refinishing. This process includes two stages. First, start staining your deck with latex or oil based stain for a polished look. Then, use fine grit sandpaper to give your deck a smooth finish.

It's better to inspect your deck condition beforehand and evaluate whether you need to strip off the old finish before staining. After all, the summer sun, heat and moisture weather the deck's wood; so sanding and staining your deck seasonally will help you maintain the refinished look.

Keep Flower Boxes.

A perfect way to bring in beautiful colors and fragrance to any outdoor is by keeping flower boxes. If you want to build one from the scratch, you should create holes at the bottom part of the box for drainage and install a strong support system for every box.

Move and assemble patio furniture.

Patio furniture accents your house while complementing natural colors in your yard. You should clean it up properly and do touch-up wherever necessary. Good quality patio furniture is important for both the appearance of your yard and comfort of your guests who come over.

Do upgrades and install.

Consider door installations, windows, and screens complementing both of your indoor and outdoor spaces in the best way as possible. After all, your yard is a continuous extension of your home. It's necessary to do some upgrades to make it welcoming and inviting for both you and your guests.
